

Why do young people protest?

Reporters from Headliners wanted to discover what motivated young people to go on a demonstration, and why the organisers and speakers felt it was important to protest.

Five young reporters from Headliners spent Saturday reporting from the Anti-Trident/Troops Out of Iraq demonstration held in London.

They wanted to find out why young people had decided to go on the protest march, and also interview some of the organisers and those speaking at the rally.

The reporters were Zarah and Nazia Driver, Chinwe Izamoje, Jason McLeod and Jamie White.

2 comments

THANKS!

Thanks it helped me so much with my coursework!!

H (age 14) from Wolverhampton, 14 January 2008 17:51

Great

I really enjoyed the Video

Sheila , 05 March 2007 17:59

- Add a comment to this page

Related Links

From the rest of the web

Stop the War

Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament

British Muslim Initiative

Brian Haw Peace Protester

Built on Cubik

©2012 Headliners

Registered Charity Number 1043300. Supported by the Department for Children, Schools and Families