

If I were in Charge of Trains

The world would look very different if young people were in charge. Joseph, 8, wishes he were in charge of the trains.

If I were in charge of the railway would also put air fresheners on the train platforms because whenever I stand on them they smell of wee. I want people to have more fun on the platforms too but I wouldn't have bands playing on them as it could get a bit too out of hand.

I would also make getting onto the trains more fun by having Helter Skelters that shoot you into the trains. I would put TV's on the trains because it is boring without them and instead of having more CCTV cameras I would employ more people to be guards because they can actually do something when people are doing bad things.

I would make paper tickets more expensive because it's bad for the environment to waste paper, and it's more eco-friendly to use reusable cards, plus it's quicker to use them than paper tickets. I would also make it so that you could buy things in shops with the train ticket so you don't have to carry money around in your pocket.

About this story

This story was produced by Joseph Ryan, 8.

0 comments

- Add a comment to this page

Built on Cubik
©2012 Headliners

Registered Charity Number 1043300. Supported by the Department for Children, Schools and Families