Get the picture

Creative Young people in Headliners Foyle explored the subject of homophobia and expressed their views visually using photography.

They took an photograph and using Photoshop edited it into an expressive image that sent out a very strong message about homophobia in the Northwest. Some young peoples images include a quote which was also created by them. Two of these images were given an award by Derry City Council and feature in their 'Spice of Life' Diversity calendar 2009.

About this feature
