

Buggin' Out

Headliners journalists prick up their ears and investigate the Mosquito. Find out what young people, shopkeepers and the Children's Commissioner of England have to say about the controversial device.

About this story

This film was produced by Charlotte Wickham 13, Claire Andrews, 16, Daisy Richardson, 12, Doriam Macaulay, 12, Elijah Onwugbonu, 12, Lizz Olubusi, 15, Ola Adeniran 13, Razaq Ademosu, 12, Rhys Howitt, 12 and Victoria Ibitoye, 15.

3 comments

Mosquito device

This is a brilliant story and really relates to how we children feel when we are penalised, because we are hanging out on the streets

Kamil Boriel from Stoke Newington, 29 October 2009 21:54

Mosquito Device

Oh, how I would love my local shops to have one of these! It would have an instant impact on my local community and our local shops. These shops and the community are plagued by local drug dealers, alcoholics and youths sitting outside these shops in a very intimidating manner.

I know this wouldn't necessarily get rid of the older participants in this behaviour, but it would not allow youngsters to buy the drugs etc and join these irresponsible older adults. I can also understand the argument for children's rights, but I think the fairest way to deal with this is TO USE THIS AS AN IMMEDIATE TEMPORARY MEASURE until things in the neighbourhood are restored.

Gaynor Dinwoodie from Reading, 17 October 2009 09:05

Buggin' Out

Awww it looks so good!

Lizz (age 15) from Dartford, 15 October 2009 18:11

- Add a comment to this page

Related Links

From the rest of the web

Buzz Off Campaign Visit this website for more information on Buzz Off, the anti-Mosquito device campaign.

Built on Cubik
©2012 Headliners

Registered Charity Number 1043300. Supported by the Department for Children, Schools and Families